Manager Hoffman of the Barre Athletic club baseball team is negotiating with the St. Johnsbury A. A., for a game in this city Saturday. The game will be played on the seminary campus and should go a long way to determining the state championship. The Caledonia county team has been traveling at a fast pace all summer, defeating such teams as the Hardwick A. C., Granville A. C., and the strong Littleton, N. H., team. Last Saturday the St. Johnsbury lads put the brakes on the Hardwick A. C. with a 4 to 3 score and handily won from the Granville A. C. several weeks ago. Lavasseur, who had been the stellar twirler of the St. Johnsbury A. C., will be on the mound. This pitcher has gained respect from all the clubs that he has met this year and is capable of hurling consistent ball. Gay, the Randolph pitcher, who has been with the Athletics for some time past, will be sent to the firing line. The game should be about the best that has been played in the city for some time.

HOSIERY

You may need a pair of new Hosiery. Then ask to see our Comfit Black Cat Hose, the hose with a shaped leg and a seamless foot. Not to be had in other makes. The price is 25c per pair.

Whether you are a Black Cat customer or not you will be later, as soon as you learn how much better they are than other makes—better to wear and more comfortable on.

R. & G. CORSETS

The kind that are steam moulded, have that long waist that so many want at the same time they are comfortable because they are made to fit the form, to hold it in place and not to disfigure or make uncomfortable the wearer—try a pair at $1.00.

READY-MADE GARMENTS

As this sale starts off our fall's business, we plan to have a good showing of the early Coats and Suits.

We have a very good showing of the new Suits. The Suits this fall are somewhat different than last season, the Coats being longer and the Skirts having a little more fullness.

At $15.00 we have a fine worsted Suit that is made of invisible striped goods. Coat is thirty-two inches long and skirt has extra fullness around bottom.

At $18.00 are a number of good Suits. Models in plain serge and novelty goods.

At $16.50 is a very good Suit. This model is made of a wide wale serge. The style of the coat is high, turnover military collar finished with braid, has a good styled skirt with the fullness at bottom.

In the better grade Suits, ranging in price from $20 to $40 we can give you some exceptional models. In these models you will find some Suits that are entirely different, the style and weave of the goods will give the tone and character to the Suit.

LADIES' COATS

Our early showing of Coats is the best we have ever shown so early in the season. The weather is surely such as to create a strong demand for the medium weight Coat, and even the heavy Coats seem to be taking exceptionally well for automobile use.

We are showing a large line of the Misses' Junior Coats. These are the Coats that fit the small women and come in a style that is as good as any of the ladies' models. The Junior Coat is a coat that is become to be of greater demand than the Misses' Coats.

This line of coats we carry in prices from $8.50 to $16.50. They come in the plain jerseys and mixtures. At $12.50 are some extremely good models.

Our early showing of Misses' Coats is the largest and best we have ever had. Here is a line of very popular Coats at prices that will appeal to you as the best you have seen at the price. Do not wait until you are ready to use the Coat but come in and look over the line.

PEASANTS OF RUSSIA.

They Can't Read and Have to Be Aided by Signs and Symbols.

All Russian shops have signs indicating the business carried on within them. Most of them have paintings describing the articles sold. For example, outside the fishmonger's is a large picture of fish; outside the butcher's, of meat; outside the poultryer's, of chicken and game; outside the tea-shop, of teapots, glasses and saucers. Houses are painted red, green, yellow, blue, so that the peasants may easily differentiate them or explain the way. Trains are sent off by bells at the station because the peasants cannot read the time tables. The first bell, one chime, is a quarter of an hour before the train starts; the second, two chimes, is five minutes before, and the third, three chimes, means the train is starting.

At postoffices men are employed to write letters for peasants or read them at a fixed tariff. For addressing an envelope, one farthing; for writing a postcard or a short letter, penny farthing; for writing a long letter, twopence halfpenny, and for reading a letter aloud, one penny. Every pillar box has a picture of a letter on it, so that the peasant may know it is the place in which to drop his postcard or his envelope. Russia is, as a rule, free from billboards, because the peasant cannot read.—London Family Herald.

Reads the Papers. Indignant Housewife—A healthy man like you begging for a living. Did you ever do a day's work in your life?

Ruffon Wratz—Yes'm; a little while ago I done th' biggest June day's work ye ever heard of. I swatted a fly an' killed a billion.—Chicago Tribune.

The Usual Way. "Papa," said Jacky, "would you like to have me give you a birthday present?"

"Yes, indeed." "Then now is the time to double my weekly pocket money, so's I'll have the money to buy it when your birthday comes."—Pearson's Weekly.

COMEDY IN A BOOKSTORE.

Queer Experience in an Attempt to Buy a Rare Work.

A correspondent of the Glasgow Herald contributes the following amusing account of an attempt to buy a rare book:

In his "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" Oliver Wendell Holmes mentions a curious book called "Thinks I to Myself" as having been written and published in England by a person of quality about the beginning of the last century. Some time ago, among a number of secondhand books exposed for sale outside a shop in Glasgow, I noticed one in elegant but faded binding. It was "Thinks I to Myself," two thin volumes. The first sentence took my fancy: "I was born of very worthy, honest and respectable parents—at least I think so!"

I went into the shop with the volumes and asked the old man of the interior, "What is the value of these?" He turned them over carelessly and said: "These are of no use to me; they're just so much waste paper." This struck me as an original way of selling books, and I gravely responded, "Very well—how much for them, then?" "Three ha'pence," he said. "Per volume?" I asked. "For the two?" he replied, whereupon I put the books into my pocket and handed him the money. He looked at me wonderingly and inquired, "Where did you get them?" "Outside, at the door," "Why," he gasped, "I thought you were selling them!"

MOST HUMAN OF BIRDS.

Not Only in Talking, but in Eating. The Parrot Imitates Man. It is not only in imitating human speech that the parrot excels most of the birds.

The parrot is alone among birds in taking food in its claws. With these two characteristics it makes more or less use of that which distinguishes humanity from the rest of the animal kingdom—the hand and the larynx.

The monkey uses its hands and the elephant its trunk in feeding. Various animals have a habit of pawing their food. Rodents have serviceable toes. Still, the parrot is pre-eminent among birds in this regard. The secretary bird is said to attack reptiles with its claws, and some observers have said that owls make partial use of their remarkably flexible perching toe somewhat more than does a hen in scratching for food. However, there is no other bird which, when given a piece of food, will accept it in its claws.

Parrots, of course, do not talk, as we use the word, in their wild state and are not known to be imitative of neighboring sounds nor to possess the repertory of the mocking bird. It is therefore a question whether or not their use of the claws is largely imitative also. The shape of the parrot's beak would indicate that some assistance in eating has always been a part of the bird's characteristics.

Like man, the parrot makes its appearance in the world naked and helpless.—Harper's Weekly.

Onion Soup and Fame. Membership in the French academy, the hoped for reward of Gallic writers, was once closely associated with onion soup. During the restoration in France a club was formed under the title of "Diner de la Soup a l'Onion." This organization contained twenty members. It met every three months, when the dinner was opened with an onion soup. The club was to endure until every associate was elected to the academy. This was accomplished in 1845, when the last banquet was held.
